Gasoline by the Quart
Big Business, Please Read
An Okapi Sanctuary
Government Might Aid
By ARTHUR BRISBANE

(Copyright, 1935, by King Features Syndicate, Inc. All rights reserved.)

Throughout France and Europe generally, you buy gasoline called essence by the quart. Five quarts is a good deal of gasoline in Europe.

The price is about 32 cents a quart, our money. 48 cents a gallon. Compare that with prices in the United States, where citizens, according to some professional minds, are crushed to earth by big business.

Americans, invited this year to rise in their might and crush big business in earth might think it over.

In America we have big business charging low prices for its products. In Europe they charge high prices for the same business charging BIG PRICES.

Oil and automobile imports in the United States, despite incessantly outrageous taxation, sell their products at far less than half the price charged here by "little business."

Thanks to America's well managed big business, its gigantic production power, making low price possible, Americans in the United States have twice as many automobiles as all the rest of the world put together, plus twice as many miles of perfect roads as all the rest of the world possesses. Cheap automobiles and gasoline produce the good roads.

In America the average family can afford an automobile. Europe's average family could no more think of buying a decent automobile than it could of buying the Colosseum. J. Pierpont Morgan's big yacht.

You should see the expression on the face of Monsieur Proust, who sells essence in France, when you tell him that in Texas and elsewhere oil has sold below 10 cents a BARREL.

The French garage-owner, who only exists, both inside and out, his shoulders raised almost to his ears, "Ah! But that is terrible!" (Ah! But that is terrible.)

Our great oil, automobile and other units of "big business," that some professors would tear down, have their good points. They do, occasionally, produce big fortunes for individuals, but they also produce big fortunes for the individual who builds the big fortune never take them out of the United States. In Heaven and there they have usually watered them quickly. Read the "muckly news."

One serene old French gentleman, intimate department store, wears and employs in America. He worked 20 years in a big store in Paris, became thoroughly acquainted with its ways, then returned to his estate in a beautiful wooded section.

There, as resident agent of the department store, he looks after customers, sends money, has the new bicycle put in order. If the brake does not work, or returns it in Paris, possibly, if you are dissatisfied. His modest pay would not buy gasoline for a "new buyer" in New York or Chicago, but it satisfies him; each year he spends three months in Paris.

He feels "we must not lose touch with the big world; and after all, the very heart of the world is Paris." You will travel far to find a man who is so hairy man, or one more polite.

The "okapi," strange striped beast of Africa, halfway between a giraffe and zebra in appearance, was unknown to civilization until recently. Now the Belgian Congo, in the province of Kibuli, Dore, establishes a sanctuary for okapi, that the rare, little creature may not die out.

A white game warden will be in charge; natives do not take game sanctuaries too seriously. Digging pits to trap animals will be forbidden in the okapi sanctuary; lest okapi might fall in.

How wonderful if government, even in a time of such a crisis, could establish a sanctuary for white-haired old men, who fall on often in the get-rich-quick schemes. In their days of youth and strength they are now useful to the world than the okapi.

Georgia Convicts Riot; One Killed

Montgomery, Ga., Aug. 25 (AP)—Rioting at the Georgia State Penitentiary left one convict dead and fifteen wounded by the shotgun.

The shooting came after white prisoners set fire to their dormitory and national guard troops with tear gas in a concerted attempt to escape.

Prison Superintendent, Richard Lawrence said W. E. McDonald, 31, serving four years from Atlanta for robbery, was killed. The others, named he said, were described as not seriously injured.

Court Clears Ickes Son

BARCELONA FERRELL LIFTED

WES TO PITCH BAR SPEAKER ON THURSDAY, FLAYS DEAL'S ALIEN REDS

By JOE CASHMAN

Wes Ferrell's suspension was lifted this morning by Manager Joe Cronin at Fenway Park after a lengthy conference between the Sox pilot, the temperamental ringer for a handled axe, and General Manager Eddie Collins.

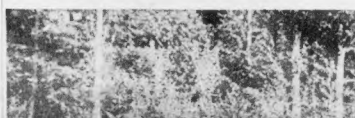

Cronin then said he would expect Ferrell to pitch in the final game against the Tigers, Thursday.

Wes will work out with the Sox tomorrow.

He also revealed that the thousand dollar fine would have to be paid by Ferrell for his act of walking out of the box in the sixth inning.

Insurgent Soldiers Shot Down on Spain's Battlefield

Death lurks behind every rock, tree or fence in unhappy Spain. Here is shown an amazing action photo of two insurgent soldiers meeting death as they charge up a slope in the Sierra De La Guadarrama mountains. Note that one man (left) has fallen, while another is in the act of falling, the camera having caught the unusual scene just as Red bullets cut them down.

ICKES SON CLEARED IN AUTO DRINK CASE

Robert H. Ickes, 21-year-old foster-son of the Secretary of the Interior, was found not guilty today of the charge that he drove an automobile while under the influence of liquor.

Ickes' appearance in Woburn court was the result of a minor accident in Winchester square August 12, when the bumper of his car scraped the mudguard of a parked automobile.

After six witnesses had testified pro and con, Judge Arthur Knox, without comment, wrote "not guilty" on the complaint.

CALED "FRESH"
Sergeant Charles A. Harold, of the Winchester police, testified that young Ickes was "fresh" on the night of the arrest.

He testified that Ickes asked him: "Are you an Irishman?"

Ickes testified that he asked the sergeant that question in a "jocular manner" the same as I would a golf partner who refused to concede me a stroke I'd call him Scotch.

The sergeant testified that Ickes told him: "I'd used to be a cop in Yellowstone Park. But there we have no lights after midnight and we're stuck in the middle of the road. If we don't use a candle and if we haven't got a candle we use the lights on the bears' eyes that crowd around us."

Young Ickes admitted the Yellowstone Park monologue, simply denying it he used the word "crowd."

Ickes, the last word in sartorial splendor, took the stand and testified he had dinner with a "buddy friend" at a Windsor inn and that he had one bottle of ale with him on the night of the arrest.

He said the sergeant refused to state the charges on which he had booked him and refused to state why he took the steps of his car away.

Patrolman John H. Boyd of the Winchester police, who was called to the scene of the accident by Sergeant Harold, and James Stratton of Winchester, owner of the car involved in the accident, both testified that as far as they could ascertain Ickes was not drunk and had not been drinking.

Ickes is a 175-wt. clerk on a Public Works Administration new project in Winchester.

After his arrest his father charged that the youth was the victim of "politics."

REDS DROWN, SHOOT NUNS, STUDENTS

Vatican City, Aug. 25 (INS)—Official reports to the Vatican of executions and barbaric tortures of Catholic priests, nuns and students by leftist terrorists in Spain, surpassing even the horrors of the French revolution, were revealed today.

The Holy See state department was advised that anarchists in Barcelona raided a Catholic college in which 1000 students had sought shelter from the perils of the civil war.

An undetermined number of the students were slaughtered, said the report.

MONKS SHOT DOWN
At Caserillo, letters were said to have railed nuns, monks and heretic students, monks and nuns in a small steamer, which was then scuttled and sunk at sea with all aboard.

Among the nuns were two aged sisters, one of whom died of a stroke while being hoisted aboard the ship.

Two monks who protested were promptly shot, according to the official report.

At Peralba del Mar, it was reported, a cathedral was sacked and burned to the ground, priceless religious treasures being destroyed, including documents relating to the assassination of King Michael, whose beatification Pope Pius is considering.

NUSS FILE IN DISGUISE
Other advisers stated Communist report contemplated the harboring of Nuss, wearing out students and monks in the "mystery" of monks.

Nuss were forced to live in disguise from many enemies and 20 friends were executed and 50 imprisoned during the past few days in Madrid, near Barcelona.

Numerous monks of the Order of Cisterciens, who were reported murdered. The order of Cisterciens is charged with religious education in Spain, and it conducts virtually the only schools in many remote regions of that country.

LONDON DEMANDS U. S. 'TEACHERS BE KEPT FREE'

URGES EDUCATORS TO FIGHT CLASS DISTINCTION RISE

Chautauqua, N. Y., Aug. 25 (US)—Governor Alfred M. Landon's address on education here was as follows:

All of us like to return to familiar scenes, to meet old friends and renew the associations of by-gone days.

It is with such a feeling—a feeling of returning home—that I come to Chautauqua. I am coming back to scenes where, as a boy and as a young man, I spent some of the happiest, some of the most profitable days of my life. Chautauqua has meant so much to me that I feel only a very gifted historian will ever be able to appraise the full value of the movement which originated here.

The annual assemblies on the shores of Lake Chautauqua began 62 years ago. They made Chautauqua a center for men and women wishing a broader, more liberal view of life. The best books of the time, were made available through its home reading courses.

The inspiration, the knowledge, the ideas, that countless thousands received here, were carried back to local communities all over the country.

At a later date, traveling Chautauqua, inspired by your success here, became welcome centers of culture in towns and villages throughout the country. They brought good music, wholesome entertainment and instructive discussion by leaders in various fields of thought. To audiences of millions of people—millions of people who had no other access to such advantages.

It is not too much to say that Chautauqua pioneered some of the present leading methods of adult education; our growing summer schools, home reading course, widely by correspondence, and our university and college extension services.

The Chautauqua tent in the country town was the symbol of two significant things. One was the deep longing for education that has always stirred the American heart and mind; the other was the native ability of the American people, to provide the means and the institutions to satisfy their hunger for education.

In view of the great contribution Chautauqua has made to American life, I was glad to accept your invitation to speak. The dangers that face free education today were an added incentive. I cannot discuss these dangers with the brilliance or learning of some of our professional educators. I shall not attempt that.

But as a parent and as the chief executive of a great state I have had to deal with education and I know something about its problems. I have learned that it is best to meet them squarely and with complete frankness.

Let me give you three of my fundamental conclusions, at once, conclusions that I have reached as a citizen and as the chief executive of Kansas.

In Kansas, we believe that our schools—public, parochial and private—must be kept free of all control by the federal government.

Gov. Alfred M. Landon picking elderberries at his boyhood home

In Kansas we believe in academic freedom and we practice it.

In Kansas we insist that no teacher should be required to take any oath not required of other citizens.

Now, let me discuss the background of study and experience that led me to the conclusions. They have their roots far back in the history of education in our country.

Our forefathers knew that the success of a free government depended upon an educated and informed citizenry.

This is still true today. Now, as then, public education is the best insurance that can be taken out by a democracy.

The first school law enacted in the state of Illinois declared:

"To enjoy our rights and liberties we must understand them."

If we doubt this, we need merely to look at developments of the last few years. At least some of the failures of popular governments, that we have witnessed in other countries, have been largely due to the people not being educated up to the responsibilities of self-government.

Each of these failures provides evidence of the wisdom with which our forefathers laid the foundation for our educational system.

For, remember, that in spite of all their earnest desires for public education, and in spite of their conviction in its supreme value, both to the nation and to the people themselves, the founders set a noteworthy example which we have always followed.

This was that they did not use the powers of the national government to establish an education system, or to influence its development. They realized the important truth, that just as life is a process of growth, so are the things by which men live and advance. They put their trust in the wisdom and ability of the people to create their own institutions to serve their needs.

As you all know, it took the efforts of a full generation to win the fight for free public schools supported by tax levies.

In this fight, the humiliating pauper school laws were the first to go. Then, after more years of effort, we wiped out the last law which, by levying charges upon the parents, denied schooling to the children of the poor.

This meant that we at last recognized that an education is the birthright of every American child, that to provide for it is a constitutional obligation of the community and of the state. This principle is the foundation upon which our tax-supported public schools system has been built.

At the same time, our schools have kept pace with the development of modern life. The little red school house of the affectionate recollection of the older generation, was adapted to the needs of a simpler age.

The school of today faces the problems of more complex conditions. Under the direction of a better educated and no less devoted teaching corps the public schools have gone far beyond the three R's.

They have developed in this way with the full approval and support of their public—a public which has always stood ready to undergo sacrifices to give adequate training to the future citizens of America.

My own state, for example, devotes more than 10 per cent of each tax dollar to the support of the schools, and other communities and states act with corresponding liberality.

One rung after another has been added to the ladder of free public education. Today we have the state university, the agricultural colleges and the vocational schools, the junior colleges, and the free public libraries.

Priceless Asset

This freedom of educational opportunities has been one of the priceless assets of American life. It has been one of the great unifying forces of our nation. It has helped to train the people for our kind of government. It has maintained democracy at the grass roots.

No one can study this record without being impressed by the imagination and constructive genius of the American people. In every sense, this movement for free public schools, came from the people themselves.

At each stage in the growth, the responsibility remained close to them. At no point has the federal government been required to assume charge.

At no point has it been necessary to change any of the fundamental principles of self-government to make the desired progress. Because our people felt that the school system was their own, their interest in education has been always maintained.

They wanted schools that would give their children better opportunities than they themselves had enjoyed, and they were willing to make sacrifices that they would not make for any other public purpose.

Strong religious convictions led groups of our people to establish private schools and colleges at their own expense. No better proof is necessary to show the vitality of religion. Such devotion to principle has made this country great.

Throughout our history, religion and education have worked hand in hand. Each owes much to the other; neither can realize its full possibilities without the other.

It seems to me this is largely the reason why, next to our government, our educational system is our greatest public effort. It has been well termed our outstanding success.

The development has taken time, it is true. The processes of a democracy are always slower than those of an all-powerful government. But they are likely to be more certain of good results.

Class Distinction

Our system of free education has failed if class distinctions are allowed to develop in this country. We must look to our teachers to see that they do not develop.

Today, perhaps to a greater degree than ever before, the control of our educational institutions must be kept in the hands of the local communities and the educators themselves.

For we may as well face the fact that the tide is running against free government today. In many lands the hand of government is closing down upon education.

It is being made into a tool for autocratic purposes. In these countries free inquiry in the pursuit of enlightenment for its own sake is being destroyed.

In these days of widespread propaganda it is imperative that our teachers be kept free and that our educational institutions, our newspapers and the radio, be kept independent, either from control of autocratic government or from the influence of any selfish interest.

There must not be censorship of what is spoken or written and, equally important, there must be no control of the source of news.

But let me say here it is to their everlasting credit that most of the great gifts to our educational institutions have been made without any strings attached to them.

They have been kept singularly free from political influence or bureaucratic control. An excellent example of the freedom which exists today in our educational institutions, in the active interest always taken by educators in our social, political and economic problems.

In some instances the arguments and conclusions advanced by our institutions of learning have jarred the views of those who are unable to see the necessity for change.

In many examples could be cited of progressive policies, in government and in business, which have their origin in our educational institutions. Education can usually be counted upon to encourage change when change means progress.

Thus our educational system has not been a thing apart from that restless search of the American people for ways of doing new things and of doing old things better.

Education's Goal

This is as it should be. If education is to realize its true goal, it cannot confine itself to an academic discussion of life—it must become part of life itself.

I believe education is making a great contribution to the solution of our difficulties. It is creating increasing interests and stimulating discussion.

Letting every man have his say is the constitutional method of solving our problems. Why should we make teaching into a suspect profession, by making our teachers take a special oath?

The self-sacrifice and devotion of our teachers is one of the finest examples of public service.

I believe that a teacher has a right to the same freedom of speech in expressing his political, social or religious convictions as any other citizen.

And I believe that a teacher has the same right to work for the accomplishment of his political and social ideals as any other citizen.

This does not mean that a teacher should use a classroom to put forward his own pet views and theories at the expense of other views and theories. If he does he is no longer a teacher; he is a propagandist. Our schools must always be institutions where views are expressed free of the personal prejudices of the teachers.

Propaganda Danger

Upon this I am, I believe, in complete agreement with the opinions expressed in resolutions by the teachers themselves through their own associations.

Another danger from propaganda is now present. It is more than the danger of our teachers becoming propagandists. It concerns widespread use of the machinery of the federal government to maintain the present administration in power, and to bring into question the faith of the people in the government, and in their form of government.

When money is forcibly taken by government from citizens and used to tear down those things most precious to our people, we see propaganda in its most shabby form.

I believe I am also in agreement with the majority opinion of teachers in thinking that they have a responsibility which is peculiar to them by reason of their calling.

They should always see that they are not making their views public that they are expressing their personal opinions. This is not a question of freedom of speech. It is a matter of decency and respect for the views of others interested in their institutions.

However, we must not be afraid to state the truth, wherever it may lead. Our attitude, in its broad application, must remain that expressed by Thomas Jefferson. In explaining the aims of the University of Virginia, he said:

"This institution will be based on the unlimited freedom of the human mind. For here we are not afraid to follow it where it may lead, nor to tolerate error as long as reason is left free to combat it."

The right of free inquiry is one of the essentials of free government. It is the very bed-rock of democracy.

Freedom of All

We must ever remember that academic freedom, political freedom, religious freedom and freedom of opportunity, are all bound together. Infringement upon one will soon lead to infringement upon the others.

In fighting to maintain our freedom, we will make great progress by fighting for the freedom of all.

We should not overlook the fact, however, that today, both at home and abroad, men are fighting for power through leadership of the mob.

Because of this, I believe that our educators should make a more than normal effort to see that our youth is given a background of our heritage and tradition—a fundamental understanding of the form and philosophy of our government.

If this is done, we need have no fear of allowing our youth to study all systems of government, in which their curiosity leads them.

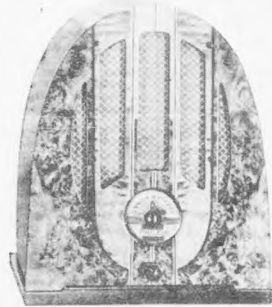

Only through ignorance or bigotry can we be destroyed. With understanding and intelligence, our future citizens will be able to separate truth from the ever-increasing amount of propaganda.

We Americans are still in control of our own destiny. We can remain so only through the processes of sound education.

WEATHER CHANGES DO IT

By MARJORIE McBRIDE

Boston Evening American
Staff Correspondent
Callender, Ont., Aug. 25.—Bad weather has delayed the new Fox-Twentieth Century picture of the Dionne quintuplets so seriously that the company will build a new sound studio of its own here in the spring.

"Heaven," the screen play being worked out now, is the first of three, the last to be made in 1936. Exciting hours of working time have been lost in the last few days because of the unusual rain in this northern town.

John Hersholt and his supporting cast have been twiddling their thumbs in waiting for the weather to clear. The company is at the Dixie Hotel at North Bay, the town's main place of business. The company's main office is in the town's main place of business.

Consequently, people such as financial men and other camp followers—there are many of them—will have been postponing the same movie in North Bay, or playing beachball on vacant lots.

Will Cost $50,000
The studio will be built on Dionne property, work will cost $50,000.

No War Day work was done on the movie. Nor did the public get to see the quins. The morning was mist and cold; in the afternoon, the sun shone brightly, but the playground was a mess.

Dr. Dufresne wouldn't allow any money pictures. Dr. Dufresne knows why. He's the sort of last century doctor who would not let his patients be photographed.

Story here in this Fox-Twentieth Century paid $250,000 in advance for the rights to the Dionne pictures, and will pay $50,000 additional for each one of it, it is made successful.

Should anything untoward happen to one of the quins, one of the $250,000 would remain part of the fund, but the other pictures would not necessarily be made, or paid for.

Herring members of royalty, no five little girls in nature have been the unusual subjects of so much publicity.

Right now one of the two toddlers who presided at their birth behind a criminal action against certain other workers in the town of North Bay, Ontario.

Promoters Work
The women, Misses Leona and Louise, say they have the best of it. The other night, Miss Leona, for reasons satisfactory to a movie, decided to take it home.

Now says fellow workers at the hotel followed her and they turned down the heater and she was injured, she related the happenings.

This reveals that the two toddlers are not growing up as fast as they are supposed to, but for a promoter, named "Phil" Adams.

In Callender and North Bay the two girls are to marry. The basket is becoming as traditional and legendary as the gun with which McKinley was shot.

Dionne always has maintained her own basket, and sent the mothers back another.

And there's a school at North Bay where which holds the original basket was burned.

Hersholt Holiday
John Hersholt, who played the physician in this picture, as he did in "The Country Doctor," played a prominent holiday, and made a personal appearance at the only North Bay movie house.

The picture was one in which he played a part. He was in the film for the first time, and he was in the film for the first time.

He was in the film for the first time, and he was in the film for the first time. He was in the film for the first time, and he was in the film for the first time.

ANNETTE

Something new in coiffures—the Dionne swirl, rumored a new sensation in hair dressing circles. It originated in Callender, Ontario, the home of the Dionne quintuplets. Yvonne, the originator, is twirling that comb in no uncertain manner. She is trying the new one on her sister, Annette.

YVONNE

EMILIE

Please! Be careful! Yvonne, who has taken over the duties of expert hairdresser, performs a fancy bit of hair-dressing here, but sister Emilie thinks her hair-dressing is being just a bit too fancy. Emilie fears that Yvonne's finger will be in her eye, and in her hair, if the latter isn't careful.

on his way through the railroad gate.

A strange family group. But it is one of things seen strange up here. It may interest others that quite a few people know that a new phase is going into the Hollywood world of this picture. It's going to be a success.

Showing the film after spotlight showed for the first time the Dionne pictures. The picture was one in which he played a part. He was in the film for the first time, and he was in the film for the first time.

The S. S. Steel Pier and the S. S. Romance, rival ocean steamers, will be kept on chartered courses one mile apart hereafter as the result of a hearing today before the Bureau of Marine Inspection.

Capt. Alberto Kent, of the Steel Pier, insisted that "something be done at once about the aggressive maneuvers of the Romance endangering the lives of thousands of passengers on both steamers."

Kent charged the Romance with negligence and willful violation of maritime regulations in Boston Harbor, Provincetown Harbor and vicinity.

The captain of the Steel Pier charged that on July 19th the Romance was disabled in the Narrows, with the Romance two miles behind. He claims he blew four blasts of his whistle, a distress signal, fearing the steamers would crash in the narrow waterway.

Passed By
The Romance, he charged, ignored his signal and bore down on the drifting Steel Pier, and the steamers were dangerously close, and then passed by.

On July 15, Kent told the hearing, he was forced to stop his engines abruptly when the Romance jockeyed across the bow of the Steel Pier off Nix's Mate.

At the conclusion of the hearing Inspector Charles M. Lyons and George McLean, who sat as commissioners, announced:

"We are going to keep the Romance and Steel Pier one mile apart by making them sail on chartered courses."

"It's about time somebody did something. They should have done it a long time ago," was the only comment of Capt. Kent.

Since early summer the Romance has existed between the excursion steamers, which was prohibited by a battle over the pier rights at Provincetown.

Girl, 13, Man, 60, Burglary Suspects
On separate burglary charges, Everett police today had a 13-year-old girl and a 60-year-old man in Maiden court.

The girl was charged with entering at the home of Mrs. Elizabeth Foster, while Mr. Foster was asleep. Police said she admitted entering three apartments, and misused $200 in one of them.

The man gave his name as Everett Logan. He was turned over to Everett police by Chelsea police, who arrested him at a point in the home of Jacob Bloom and then discovered that Bloom's home was on the Everett side of the Chelsea-Everett line.

Logan was held in jail of $125 for a hearing Thursday. The girl was given into custody of the probation officer.

SOCK! Langone Chin DUSTED

BIGNEY LANDS BLOW IN ROW

"One-Punch Bob Bigney" gave away 60 pounds and disposed of Senator Joseph A. Langone in one round today as an added feature to the state ballot commission circuit when it resumed at the State House.

Senator Bigney, whose Republican nomination papers have been challenged by his rival, Governor's Councilman Daniel H. Coughley, used just one left hook on Langone in a brief round after Langone had struck the diminutive senator in the face with his straw hat.

Guards and state police then looked on as Langone and Bigney shook themselves slightly and went back to the business of boxing.

Bigney had been cross-examining Mr. Gussie Grosse of 24 Hull street, North End, when the flurry with Langone occurred.

Mr. Grosse had testified that a signature on Bigney's papers had been written by her and Bigney was questioning her denial when Langone jumped up from his seat, came out on the floor and shouted to the woman:

"Don't pay any attention to him."

"You get out of here," ordered Bigney.

"I am defending the Italian race and all my friends," announced Bigney, who sat as commissioner, announced:

"We are going to keep the Romance and Steel Pier one mile apart by making them sail on chartered courses."

"It's about time somebody did something. They should have done it a long time ago," was the only comment of Capt. Kent.

Bishop Davies Dies in Lenox
Lenox, Aug. 25 (AP)—Bishop Thomas F. Davies of the western Massachusetts diocese of the Episcopal Church, died at 11:15 a. m. today in his summer home here.

FAMILY OF 9 HIKES
After three days of hitchhiking from Manchester, N. H., to Weymouth, Mr. and Mrs. Howard J. Raymond and their seven children, traveled in style today in Plymouth.

The town of Weymouth, in the family's plight by Weymouth town, authorities, hired a taxi to take the Raymonds and their tired brood to their destination.

In Plymouth, the Raymond children and their mother will live with a brother of the father, who lives there.

The family's begins "on the road" began Saturday, when, hungry and without funds or a job, the father decided to move the entire family to Plymouth.

Sunday night they slept in a field. Last night they had managed to thumb their way to Weymouth, where they were given beds in the town infirmary.

FEARED FOR CHILDREN
Raymond is a World War veteran. He said he had sought work for months in New Hampshire. Fear that city authorities in Manchester might take his children caused him in journey to Maine.

The three children have raised the money another inch off the floor as the people in town unkindly by half its length, its struggles unending.

The battle is being waged near the concrete base of the Krasnec street where the children have been since they were in such a way as to keep the children at least an inch from the concrete wall, giving it no chance to brace itself there in any of its failings.

PROMISED JOB
The father has been promised a steady job in Weymouth, N. H., in 30 days, he told Weymouth authorities. At that time, the family will return to New Hampshire.

EAST BOSTON GIRL BADLY BURNED IN SHOP

(Picture from International News Photograph Service.)

Flames nearly took the life of this 21-year-old East Boston girl, Miss Flora Salza, who was rescued from basement of blazing florist shop in Tremont street, South End, today. She suffered second degree burns to her face, hands and chest. Her name has been placed on the danger list at City Hospital.

Girl Florist Clerk Rescued at Fire

Miss Flora Salza, 21, a clerk in a florist shop at 219 Tremont street, South End, today was rescued from the flame-swept basement of the shop by a passerby.

Louis De Vito, 28, of Mattfeld, dashed through flame and smoke to carry her to safety.

De Vito, working by the florist shop, saw smoke pouring from the basement windows. He raced to a fire alarm box and sounded an alarm. Running back to the store, other employees told him the girl was working in the basement.

EAT Less or Walk 'EAT 4'S'

SCIENCE FEARS THREE-SQUARES

Hamilton, N. Y., Aug. 25 (AP)—Man in his evolution may be headed for an all-fours posture. Or for a survival of only the slim-waisted. Or for a race that forgets its three square meals and eats frequently and lightly.

The reasons were advanced today by Dr. Donald A. Laird, professor of psychology at Colgate University, in the Medical Record.

He reports that after finding that eating and while lying down made increased stress the first hour after meals, he suggested that students to learn whether blood drawn from the head by digestion relaxed the diaphragm.

Study, Head Down
Students did mental arithmetic after eating and while lying down with their heads lower than their feet. In this position they were better than with heads higher than feet. Dr. Laird found the explanation in the "splanchnic" reservoir, the area where the blood gathers around the viscera.

Physiology, he stated, draws blood from the venous system in the splanchnic reservoir temporarily. Feet above the head, he said, "homo sapiens" has gained advantages and suffered disadvantages.

On All Fours
"If mankind went around on all fours, the blood supply to the brain would be better."

The superior state of the human brain may be overcompensated to make up for this slowing and inaccuracy, the upright position brought in its wake.

But the upright position is more important for men than animals because the horizontal position permits an increased flow of blood to the brain."

2 More Spiders Join to Enmesh Snake

Bristol, Ct., Aug. 25 (AP)—Two death struggle between a six-inch garter snake and a black house spider, in progress four days in a cellar here, reached a climax today with the appearance of two additional spiders.

The allies, who turned up overnight at the scene in the home of Arthur L. Krasnec, immediately set to work reinforcing an already frail web which the original conqueror had woven about the head and forepart of the snake.

The three spiders have raised the snake another inch off the floor as the people in town unkindly by half its length, its struggles unending.

APPEARANCE AND MARRIAGE - By Beatrice Fairfax

Mirror Often Salvation Of Girl Who Cannot Attract Men

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Buy a full-length mirror. It may be the means of your salvation.

When you are dressed and ready to "step out" to a dance or party, stand before that full-length mirror, and ask yourself: "How do I look?"

After you have applied your make-up, put your face in front of that full-length mirror, and say to yourself: "Is this or something out of the Sunday colored supplement?"

If you are big and fat and like to wear slacks, stand in front of that full-length mirror, and whisper as softly as you can: "Is this a woman or a Cadillac automobile?"

Yes, dear friend, buy a full-length mirror. You probably need it much more than you think you do. See yourself as others see you, and you will be not only prettier, but happier.

The trouble with all of us women is that we look at ourselves every once in a while in the mirror. This explains why we have created for "young young things" of sixteen and older the latest fashions of the latest fashions of the latest fashions. A girl, stoned as far as her face is concerned, in France, who writes this interesting letter:

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I am 25, weigh 154 pounds, am fairly good-looking, and do my best to be "the life of the party." But all in vain. Men won't look at me a second time.

Always, all I can go for good clothes. I hate being, since it always makes me sick. Yet I think it to be a "good sport."

Constant practice has given me a "good line," and I can see to reason why I shouldn't be attractive to men. Do you?

Please give me a few words of good advice. I certainly need it.

FRANCES R.

MY DEAR FRANCES:

You received the good advice. The full-length mirror prescription was especially for you.

Chances are the clothes you are buying the mirror you are drinking and that "line" you have are all to do with a young woman's size.

Instead of attracting men, you are probably disgusting and repelling them.

My friend, it is that you were born the "hombody" type. That plumper cheeks, no lips and no "line" will get you a whole lot further in life.

To your mind, there is probably a vision of a little, slim-bodied girl of sixteen. By some strange magic you have envied your own self that you, with your size

MOTHER GRAHAM IS INDIGNANT OVER EVENTS

WHAT WOULD Mother Graham do?

This was the question which repeated itself insistently to me as Katherine lifted the screaming baby from her grandmother's arms.

I knew as well her arrogance and her determination to have her own way, that I found myself actually trembling with fear of the scene which in all probability would follow Katherine's action.

That it was no light or thoughtless move on Katherine's part I was sure. She refers to Mother Graham in every possible way, but when the welfare of a child or other person entrusted to her training came into question, she acts with a precision and dispatch that borders on ruthlessness.

FAITH STOPS CRYING

So absorbed was I in the question of my mother-in-law's possible reaction to Katherine's lifting of the baby from her arms, that I did not at first realize that Faith's cry had ceased and that she was looking up into Katherine's face with a wide smile and a giggling laugh, even while the tears still stood upon her plump cheeks.

I did not even look at Mother Graham, and my ears were already straining from the wail of wrath I expected her to pour out upon us.

To my great relief, however, she smiled the martyr's look, but when someone else's angry words, it was not hard upon the auditory nerves of her mother-in-law.

"I can very readily see," she said softly, "that you quite well know when anybody else is on hand to care for my grandchild, but when someone else comes in I am put aside, rudely, and my grandchild is entrusted to somebody else."

Tinted Light Cures Illness, Doctor Finds

Chicago, Aug. 25 (UPI)—Use of tinted light in treating headaches, dizziness and anemia has been described for the first time.

Dr. H. J. Ziller, of Chicago, O., made a report on his experiments before the annual convention of the American Association of Ophthalmology.

Producing what he termed a "tytometer," a device by means of which light of different colored glasses were placed before a subject's eyes, Dr. Ziller pointed out that each color had a different effect.

Thus, he said, blue or violet light stopped headaches. Red light, he declared, affected blood pressure and corrected dizziness. Yellowish-green or blue-green light, he said, relieved stomach disorders.

State Rule Of Prices On Way

Demands that the law keep in step with the wishes of the public and that no further action to law changes in public opinion were made today at the 59th annual meeting of the American Bar Association.

At the same time, in an address, Daniel R. Richberg, general administrator of the National Industrial Recovery Act, was telling delegates that "compulsory" had not begun or end with the NRA, despite the fact of limitations and

"It does not stop short of interfering with the real competition in wages and prices," said Richberg, "and unless we prevent this sort of anti-private power to eliminate such competition, we will be forced into the control of business along the lines of controlling public utility service. This will not stop short of absolute state control and the substitution of the standard of a fixed maximum for the present standard of competitive reward."

It was a thousand to one shot that the Sandy Burr player was "The McGlone" kicked away the 15th hole putting the putt, and then Desmarais got home with a drive and a live iron at the 18th, where McGlone was short. McGlone charged in, but he was too late when he took two putts.

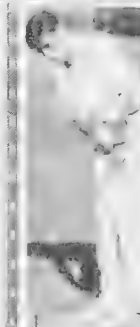

Spikes Drive

Rails Recover Some of Their Lost Business

Competition Brings New Effort: Views of Carl
Gray, of U. P.

By M. S. RUKYER
(Copyright, 1936, by Universal Service)

New York, Aug. 25.—This summer season has been characterized by a remarkable rise back to the rails.

Not only have the railroads again a complete recovery, but they also appear to have gained relative to competitive agencies of transportation.

With a lawsuit pending against the Interstate Commerce Commission, the railroads have been able to give credit to the new competition in the new season. The railroads have been able to give credit to the new competition in the new season. The railroads have been able to give credit to the new competition in the new season.

The reason of the world is to have of higher equipment, and to a minimum the burden of increasing production.

Manpower economy is to be found in the use of equipment, particularly in freight cars. In the past, railroads have paid millions of dollars for increasing production.

The West has been more aggressive than the East in offering new style of trains in the traveling public.

I asked Carl Gray, president of the Union Pacific, for the lower passenger rate schedule was announced.

"I cannot answer for the East," he said. "The lower rates are the result of competition."

Mr. Gray declared, "The railroads have been able to give credit to the new competition in the new season. The railroads have been able to give credit to the new competition in the new season."

As for the outlook, Mr. Gray said, "I believe that the railroads will show reasonable hope for the future."

FOOD Prices SOAR CONDITION IS THREATENING

Minneapolis, Aug. 25.—Soaring food prices and rising rents in the late summer and autumn months threaten to wipe out the slender margin which the average family's pay check has finally established in its three-year race with living costs, according to a 1933-1936 survey by Northwestern National Life Insurance Company.

A month's supply of food, which would cost $30 at average 1933 prices, cost $37.93 during the second quarter of 1936, and climbed another half-dollars in July, in spite of the break in seasonal changes of food prices and vegetables.

With food costs increasing their own, the food prices are expected to rise from the effects of food scarcity.
